Reward upped for missing bear

Kijiji ad. Online plea from mother for lost stuffy has garnered attention

There's been no sight of Berry yet, but a nine-year-old Fort Saskatchewan boy is holding out hope.

Max Schilman was given his teddy bear, Berry, the day after he was born from his grandfather. But during a trip to Calgary last weekend, the bear went missing. An ad posted on kijiji by Max's mother, Carrie, drew the attention of media in the Calgary area — and the $20 reward was soon bumped to $120.

"We're really just so appreciative of ... how our plight has taken everyone," said Carrie. "Max is very hopeful."

Diagnosed with epilepsy at a young age, Berry became a source of comfort during medical appointments and treatments.

In November 2008, Carrie's father died suddenly.

"It was very hard on all of us, especially Max," she said. "Max was very fond of my father, and my father was very fond of Max."

"That bear, during the mourning period, was really helpful for Max. It's a piece of my dad — for all of us."

The Alberta government claims stricter impaired-driving legislation targets dangerous drivers, but some lawyers and civil-rights advocates say the measures go too far. METRO FILE

Lawyers sound warning on impaired-driving law

Civil rights. Similar laws in B.C. have led to a host of legal challenges in that province

Bottoms up, Alberta — you could be in for one heck of a courtroom clash.

That's the warning from B.C. lawyers who say new impaired-driving legislation due to be implemented here in one month may actually inhibit civil rights more than widely challenged laws in their own province.

Alberta solicitor general Jonathan Denis has indicated indefinite suspensions for drivers who violate the .08 blood-alcohol threshold. The move will

Details

- B.C. lawyers Paul Doroshenko and Jeremy Carr have collectively worked on hundreds of cases involving people impacted by stricter impaired-driving laws in that province.
- Alberta will also roll out three-day vehicle impoundments for Albertans violating a .05 blood-alcohol threshold. That measure is expected to come into effect in late August.

prevent charged drivers from turning the ignition again until the matter has been resolved in court — a process some lawyers have suggested could take over a year and violates the legal standard of innocent until proven guilty.

B.C. has already introduced a similar 90-day suspension for .08 violations in the province, but a Supreme Court judge ruled last year that the measure violated constitutional practices.

Changes to account for that ruling are expected to come forward next week.

"This whole thing is deeply disturbing," said Paul Doroshenko, a veteran Vancouver lawyer who originally hails from Edmonton. "Any smart judge watching this in Alberta is going to notice the exact same thing."

Despite the criticism, Denis said Alberta consulted a great deal with B.C.'s solicitor general before crafting its own legislation. He noted a two-tier appeal process and lack of fines as two prominent differences.

"Legislation is challenged on a regular basis in this province and every other province," Denis added.

But Victoria lawyer Jeremy Carr said the shift in both provinces is cause for concern.

"It's actually scary the way provinces are going to save money by putting all of the power in the hands of police," he said.

Funding

Surgery costs for gender reassignment to be covered again

Alberta will reinstate funding for gender-reassignment surgeries June 15, more than two years after delisting the operation as a cost-saving measure.

The policy change will mean up to 25 people per year can have the surgery for a total annual cost of about $1 million.

Health Minister Fred Horne said the government is reinstating the policy because it is simply the right thing to do.

"Alberta is a very progressive province and policy needs to catch up to where Albertans are," Horne said Thursday from Calgary.

Horne would not say whether the Progressive Conservative caucus voted on the issue.

Former premier Ed Stelmach's government cut funding for the operations in April 2009. At the time, gay-rights activists estimated there were about 600 people on a waiting list.

Kris Wells, a spokesman for the Institute for Sexual Minority Studies at the University of Alberta, called the new policy a historic victory that will save lives.

He said some people who couldn't have the operation considered killing themselves.

"It sent people's lives into chaos and turmoil. People ended up leaving the province. Other people contemplated suicide," he said. "They saw no hope and possibility for their lives without this medically necessary procedure."

Wells said the lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender community is jubilant about the government's change of heart and credits Premier Alison Redford. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Superbug antibiotic may be possible: U of A researchers

Discovery. Scientists trying to find potential treatment for killer hospital bacteria

heather.mcintyre@metronews.ca

Researchers at the University of Alberta have made a discovery that could lead to the development of an antibiotic for a superbug.

Ancinetobacter baumannii is a lethal multi-drug-resistant bacteria that has plagued hospitals around the world. Most recently it has been linked to a man's death at the Royal Alexandra Hospital in Edmonton.

"We're hoping this is kind of the first Achilles heel of the superbug," said PhD student Jeremy Iwashkiw. "(Because) it's only going to increase in prevalence."

Deadly

"Unfortunately, it can kill people when it infects them."

PhD student Jeremy Iwashkiw, on the ancinetobacter bacteria

The U of A team, led by microbiologist and principal investigator for the Alberta Glycomics Centre Mario Feldman, identified a mechanism that allows acinetobacter baumannii to cover its surface with glycoproteins, which means the bacteria is less capable of forming biofilms — and that is what makes it resistant to antibiotics.

"This discovery opens the door to the design of novel antibiotics to fight acinetobacter infections," said Feldman.

The bacteria is spread from person to person, and can live for several days on hospital equipment.

"This exists and it exists everywhere," said Dr. Mark Joffe, AHS' senior medical director for Infection Prevention and Control. "This is a reality internationally."

Colleagues from Ottawa, Austria and Australia also contributed to the work, published in the PLoS Pathogens journal on Thursday.

Redford approval second in the country: Survey

There are just some things Alberta can't be No. 1 in — and one of them happens to be the love for our leader.

But, we're No. 2. A new poll by Angus Reid Public Opinion shows that 60 per cent of Albertans approve of the job being done by Premier Alison Redford.

That's only second to Saskatchewan Premier Brad Wall, who logged 67 per cent favour.

The online survey was conducted from May 21 to 28 and had 6,599 respondents, with a margin of error of +/- 1.2 per cent 19 times out of 20. METRO

Historic 'pearly' outfits donated to university

Costume collection.

Pieces of clothing celebrate piece of Edmonton's history

heather.mcintyre@metronews.ca

While packing up to move back to Europe, June Dickerson decided to leave history behind.

She donated clothing decorated with 10,000 hand-sewn mother-of-pearl and plastic buttons to the University of Alberta's Clothing and Textiles Collection. Dickerson's parents, Tom and Thelma Chissell, wore the items as the city's "Pearly King and Queen."

The English tradition — dating back to 1875 — came to Edmonton with the Chissells in 1970. By 1977, with blessings from established groups, they were wearing the costumes and performing charitable works at hospitals

Vlada Blinova, University of Alberta Clothing and Textiles collections manager, with the Pearly King and Queen outfits. UNIVERSITY OF ALBERTA and seniors' homes, Heritage Days and the Terry Fox Run.

The Queen acknowledged the pair in Edmonton for the 1978 Commonwealth Games, and Princess Diana once pulled Tom aside in Vancouver.

Thelma died in 1992, Tom in 2003.

"Mom and dad would be so proud," Dickerson said of the donation. "Otherwise ... (the clothes) would have been stuck in the closet."

The backup plan was a theatre, but collections manager Vlada Blinova is glad to have the garments, noting they will be a valuable teaching tool. "(Part) of our collection mandate is to preserve local history, as well," she said.

Pearly King and Queens, an organized charitable tradition in England, first came about when orphan street-sweeper Henry Croft collected money for charity. Street vendors, called Costermongers, sported pearl buttons, something Croft adopted. He would collect buttons when they fell off the clothing of the wealthy.

City council. Bag ban a no-go in Edmonton

Plastic bags like these from Safeway will soon be outlawed in Toronto, but it looks like Edmonton won't be following suit. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

Edmonton city council has already looked at — and rejected — a proposal to ban plastic bags in the city, and there seems to be little support to revisit the issue in light of Toronto's move to ban the bags.

"We tried it a few years ago and it didn't go very far," said Coun. Ben Henderson.

The previous council asked for a report from administration, and it found little support for a ban.

Edmonton already has one of the most comprehensive recycling programs in the country; in fact, the city makes money selling the recycled plastic, he said.

But that doesn't mean it's a bad idea in his view.

He said he'd look at it again if there seemed to be support. "But you have to choose what hill you want to die on, and banning plastic bags isn't it," he said.

Coun. Kerry Diotte, on the other hand, thinks it's a bad idea at any time.

"I don't think Edmonton is big on bans. We like to use the carrot rather than the stick."

He sees retailers and the public moving away from plastic bags voluntarily, and that there is no need for a "draconian" law banning bags. MAURICE TOUGAS/METRO

Students catch a peek at canine history

Exhibit. Museum claims this is the largest travelling exhibition showing the history, biology and evolution of dogs

MAURICE TOUGAS
maurice.tougas@metronews.ca

A group of lucky kids from St. Vincent School got a sneak peek at the Wolf to Woof: The Story of Dogs exhibit at the Royal Alberta Museum, giving it two paws up.

"The best part of it is all the awesome dogs," said Grade 2 student Nolan Carter.

The students swarmed across the vast location during the preview Thursday.

The exhibit — billed by the museum as the largest and most comprehensive travelling exhibition ever developed on the history, biology and evolution of canines — opens Saturday and runs until September.

Spreading across 5,500 square feet, the exhibit includes 135 pieces that track the age-old history of man and dog.

It includes a "howling area" where visitors can guess what dogs are saying and a chance to test your sense of smell against a dog's (spoiler alert: you'll lose).

Be prepared to shed a few tears at the display of the winners of the Best Buddy contest sponsored by the museum, said RAM spokesman Deborah Andrews.

Albertans were asked to submit nominees for most heroic, embarrassing and best-loved dogs. The top 30 winners of the contest were chosen from among 255 entries. Some of the stories are so heartwarming that the judges were in tears, Andrews said.

Each of the 30 dogs gets an official photo and a description of their heroic — or otherwise — deeds.

Admission to Wolf to Woof is included in the museum ticket price.

Dynavision. Sports technology helps stroke patients get vision back

Mell Snyder is tested on the Dynavision D2 at the Glenrose Rehabilitation Hospital on Thursday. HEATHER MCINTYRE/METRO

Mell Snyder knows he is well on the road to recovery because he got his driver's licence back.

The 62-year-old Lamont man had a stroke in March, leaving him with blurred vision and right-side weakness.

His rehab at the Glenrose Rehabilitation Hospital in Edmonton wraps up next week — and he credits recently acquired technology.

"It's improved my reaction, it's improved my feeling," said Snyder. "So it will get me back in the workforce."

Dynavision D2 is a computerized light board with tiny buttons that light up.

Numerous drills can be run, all with the idea of hitting whichever buttons light up.

It was first developed for professional athletes to improve hand-eye co-ordination, reaction time, peripheral vision, visual awareness and concentration skills.

"It's nice to have a piece of equipment that has summarized actual data," said Quentin Ranson, rehabilitation technology leader. "The patients can see their improvements."

The equipment arrived about a year ago, and between 10 and 15 patients train twice weekly on it every month.

Alberta legislature

Committee votes to axe tax-free MLA salaries

An Alberta legislature committee has voted to adopt a single, fully taxable salary for MLAs.

The move formally ends the practice of politicians getting extra pay for attending committee meetings and eliminates the tax-free portion of their salaries they had been receiving for decades.

MLAs will make a base salary of $134,000.

All were recommendations from a review conducted by retired justice John Major.

Tough samaritan. UFC fighter breaks up attack on young Calgary couple

Mixed martial arts fighter Nick Ring helped break up an attack on two teenagers in south Calgary on Wednesday evening.

The 33-year-old, who is on the card of UFC 149 in Calgary on July 21, was driving when he saw a group of teenagers attacking two others near MacLeod Trail.

"They were assaulting them," Ring said. "One of the attacker girls was kneeling the victim girl in the face.... These poor kids had cuts all over their face from the strikes they'd taken."

Ring says when he jumped out of his car, he was joined by another bystander. After checking on the victims, he and the bystander gave chase and caught one male.

Ring followed the others while he called the police.

"They had no idea who I was," Ring said. "They were running away like scared little rats. The cops caught up with them."

"As as I was pointing them out, one of them challenged me to a one-on-one match. He said that he would take me."

A Calgary Police Service spokesperson said the victims were a male and female, both 17. One was treated for minor injuries.

"It was a really sad thing to see," Ring said. "They didn't deserve what they got. They were outnumbered. I had to even out the playing field."

Searching for suspect with oversized ears

Halifax Regional Police are investigating a theft from a bus shelter of an oversized set of headphones. The headphones, measuring more than a metre wide and a metre tall, had been placed on the bus shelter as part of an advertising campaign. #### Quebec media, politicians get suspicious mail

A dozen more suspicious packages containing a non-harmful white powder arrived at political and media offices across Quebec on Thursday, adding to the nearly two dozen received the previous day.

Provincial politicians were targets as well as media organizations in a half-dozen Quebec cities, police said. The powder was not dangerous. Police said 12 new envelopes arrived Thursday, some with notes signed by a group calling itself the Armed Revolutionary Forces of Quebec.

Magnotta may return to Canada within days

German prosecutors said Thursday a decision on the extradition of the porn actor suspected of the grisly killing and dismemberment of a Chinese student in Montreal could be made within days.

Berlin prosecutors asked a court to transfer 29-year-old Luka Rocco Magnotta into pre-extradition custody, spokesman Martin Steltner said. The decision on the extradition of the suspect would likely require a "few days" and isn't expected before next week, Steltner said.

First Nations school being tested for HIV

Infection unlikely. University of Manitoba professor had given faulty diabetes screening

Dozens of students and staff at a First Nations high school are being tested for HIV and hepatitis after undergoing a faulty diabetes screening.

A University of Manitoba professor talked to students at Southeast Collegiate on May 4 about diabetes and used a glucometer to test blood-sugar levels on about 80 people.

University spokesman John Danakas said the professor changed the needle used on each person.

"It's the device which holds the lancet that was reused, and you're not supposed to reuse that. Although the device never comes into contact with the person's skin ... there's still a very, very small, I think it's one in several million, possibility that there could be an infection."

The university later clarified the chances are deemed to be less than one in a million.

Danakas would not identify the professor, but said he was not authorized to perform the diabetes test and has been disciplined.

The case has angered some aboriginal leaders.

"While the risk of a student contracting an infection is described by the University of Manitoba as exceptionally unlikely ... the risk is not zero," Chief Michael Yellowback of the Manto Sipi Cree Nation, said in a written statement. Eight children from the reserve who attend the Winnipeg school were part of the diabetes test.

The group that represents First Nations communities across northern Manitoba said it was alarmed that impromptu diabetes tests were done without parental consent.

"At the heart of the matter, prior written parental consent should have been required by the school," said Grand Chief David Harper of the Manitoba Keewatinow Okimakanak.

Montreal police arrest protesters

Montreal police made a series of searches and arrests in connection with disruptive protests, and those detained Thursday included the daughter of an elected politician.

Amir Khadir, the sole elected member of the left-wing party Quebec Solidaire, confirmed that his 19-year-old daughter was among those arrested.

Before breakfast, police entered the family's downtown home as one of eight searches around the city. Police officers were asked to do the polite thing as guests — and take off their shoes, Khadir said — but they refused the request from his spouse and walked in.

Five out of 11 people being sought Thursday were arrested. Charges to be laid will vary. They include mischief, break and enter, conspiracy, and the serious crime of committing a terrorist hoax which carries a maximum five-year prison sentence.

It was unclear what charges Khadir's daughter, Yalda Machouf-Khadir, might face. Her arrest came just two days after that of her politician father, who was released with a fine.

Khadir had compared his own act, of blocking a street during a protest, to the civil disobedience of Mahatma Gandhi and Martin Luther King. As police officers entered the family home Thursday morning, they walked past a sign on the balcony that said: "When injustice becomes the law, resistance becomes a duty."

New mass killings in Syria: UN

Mazraat al-Qubair. Groups say nearly 80 people killed, just weeks after a massacre in Houla

UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon said unarmed UN monitors came under fire Thursday as they tried to reach the scene of the latest Syrian mass killing. Activists said government forces killed nearly 80 people, including women and children who were shot, hacked to death and burned in their homes.

Ban told the UN General Assembly that the monitors "were shot at with small arms" as they tried to reach Mazraat al-Qubair, a farming area in the central Hama province. The group initially was denied access. He did not mention any casualties, and it was not clear who was behind the shooting.

International envoy Kofi Annan told the General Assembly, "If things do not change, the future is likely to be one of brutal repression, massacres, sectarian violence, and even all-out civil war."

Syria denied that its forces committed a massacre as "absolutely baseless" and blamed the violence on terrorists who trying to provoke foreign military intervention to topple Assad.

A resident of Mazraat al-Qubair said troops shelled the area for five hours Wednesday before government-aligned militiamen entered the area, "killing and hacking everyone they could find."

Leith Al-Hamwy says that he survived by hiding in an olive grove about 800 metres from the farms as the killings were taking place. But he said his mother and six siblings, the youngest of which were 10-year-old twins, did not.

"When I came out of hiding and went inside the houses, I saw bodies everywhere. Entire families either shot or killed with sharp sticks and knives," he said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Search teams picking through the rubble of a residential building — which collapsed in southern Italy Thursday after an explosion — have found the bodies of an Italian-Dutch couple and their young child, police say.

Francesco Spinelli, a Carabinieri paramilitary commander, said the bodies were found several hours after the blast. Local officials have stated that a gas leak is suspected as the cause. At least 10 people in nearby buildings were slightly injured, including one child.

Conversano Mayor Giuseppe Lovascio had said that the family had arrived from the Netherlands two days ago on vacation. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. military. Suicides up to one a day in 2012, surpassing deaths in combat

Suicides are surging among America's troops, averaging nearly one a day this year — the fastest pace in the nation's decade of war.

The 154 suicides for active-duty troops in the first 155 days of the year far outdistance the U.S. forces killed in action in Afghanistan — about 50 per cent more — according to Pentagon statistics.

The numbers reflect a military burdened with wartime demands from Iraq and Afghanistan that have taken a greater toll than foreseen a decade ago. The military also is struggling with increased sexual assaults, alcohol abuse, domestic violence and other misbehaviour.

Because suicides had levelled off in 2010 and 2011, this year's upswing has caught some officials by surprise.

The reasons for the increase are not fully understood. Among explanations, studies have pointed to combat exposure, post-traumatic stress, misuse of prescription medications and personal financial problems. Army data suggest soldiers with multiple combat tours are at greater risk of committing suicide, although a substantial proportion of Army suicides are committed by soldiers who never deployed.

The war in Afghanistan is winding down with the last combat troops scheduled to leave at the end of 2014.

But this year has seen record numbers of soldiers being killed by Afghan troops, and there also have been several scandals involving U.S. troop misconduct.

This year's January-May total is up 25 per cent from two years ago, and it is 16 per cent ahead of the pace for 2009, which ended with the highest yearly total thus far.

The numbers are rising among the 1.4 million active-duty military personnel despite years of effort to encourage troops to seek help with mental health problems. Many in the military believe that going for help is seen as a sign of weakness and thus a potential threat to advancement. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

France's 'first lady' is looking for a better title

President's girlfriend. Veteran journalist thinks current term is a little old-school for her

A longtime political journalist, Valerie Trierweiler knows about searching for just the right words. And as the romantic partner of France's new president, she's doing just that: She feels that the term "first lady" is a bit too old-school.

More than three weeks after Francois Hollande — her companion, boyfriend, significant other, take your pick — took office, Trierweiler still doesn't know what she wants to be called. But she's found one possible role model: Eleanor Roosevelt, the Depression-era first lady in the United States known for her activism and character.

"Look at that! A journalist first lady isn't a novelty," wrote Trierweiler in Paris Match magazine, in a review of a new French biography of Mrs. Roosevelt. The article, published Thursday, was Trierweiler's first since Hollande took office.

In an interview with Inter-France radio, Trierweiler says it's not that she doesn't like the term "first lady" for herself; it's just that it seems a bit "outdated." She and Hollande are not married.

Trierweiler has spent more than 20 years as a journalist at Paris Match, France's leading newsweekly, mostly as a political journalist. But in 2006, the year after she started up a relationship with Hollande, she stopped covering the Socialist Party that he was heading at the time.

Trierweiler has faced a tricky balancing act in her new role. A twice-divorced mother raising three boys, she has repeatedly said that she plans to keep working to earn a living as head of household. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Survey says. More than half of U.S. high school seniors text and drive

More than half of U.S. high school seniors admit they text or email while driving — the first federal statistics on how common the dangerous habit is in teens.

An anonymous national survey conducted last year found that 58 per cent of high school seniors said they had texted or emailed while driving during the previous month. About 43 per cent of high school juniors acknowledged they did the same thing.

"I'm not surprised. I'm not surprised at all," said Vicki Rimasse, a New Jersey woman whose son caused a fender bender earlier this year after texting in traffic. She made him take a safe-driving class after the mishap.

"I felt like an idiot," said her 18-year-old son, Dylan Young.

"It caused me to be a lot more cautious," said the high school senior, although he conceded that he still texts behind the wheel.

Japanese dock washes up on American beach

Tsunami debris.

Scientists worry that plants and animals attached to the dock could invade Oregon

When a tsunami hit the northern coast of Japan last year, the waves ripped four dock floats the size of freight train boxcars from their pilings in the fishing port of Misawa and turned them over to the whims of wind and currents.

One floated up on a nearby island. Two have never been seen again. And one made an incredible journey across 8,000 kilometres of ocean that ended this week on an Oregon beach.

Along for the ride were hundreds of millions of individual organisms, including a tiny species of crab, a species of algae, and a little starfish all native to Japan, that have scientists worried they may get a chance to spread out on the U.S. West Coast.

"This is a very clear threat," said John Chapman, a research scientist at Oregon State University's Hatfield Marine Science Center in Newport, where the dock float washed up early Tuesday. "It's exactly like saying you threw a bowling ball into a China shop. It's going to break something. But will it be valuable or cheap glass. It's incredibly difficult to predict what will happen next."

While scientists expect much of the floating debris to follow the currents to the Great Pacific Garbage Patch,

Scientists from Oregon State University and the U.S. government inspect a massive dock with Japanese lettering that washed ashore on Agate Beach on Wednesday, just a mile north of Newport, Ore. THOMAS BOYD/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS an accumulation of millions of tons of small bits of plastic floating in the northern Pacific, tsunami debris that can catch the wind is making its way to North America. In recent weeks a soccer ball washed up in Alaska, and a Harley-Davidson motorcycle in a shipping container in British Columbia.

After it ran ashore on Tuesday, the Japanese Consulate was able to track down the origin of the dock float from a plaque bolted to it commemorating its installation in June 2008. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Potential invaders

Oregon State University scientist John Chapman said plans were being considered by state authorities to scrape all the living things, including an invasive species commonly known as "wakame," pictured, off the dock and bury them in the sand, so they would not spread.

A life of crime. Aging mobster sentenced, says boredom made him steal

A reputed Chicago mobster who gained notoriety three decades ago for stealing the 45-carat Marlborough Diamond from a London jewelry store was sentenced to prison in another case Thursday, telling the judge he got involved in more robberies because he was bored.

Arthur (The Brain) Rachel, 73, was sentenced to eight and a half years in prison for his involvement in planning robberies with two other accomplices, both of whom are also in their 70s. Before the sentencing, U.S. District Court Judge Harry Leinenweber asked Rachel why he got involved after spending nearly a decade in prison for the diamond heist.

"It's the way we are," Rachel said. "We got nothing better to do. We sit around talking."

Federal prosecutor Amarjeet Bhachu didn't mince words in characterizing Rachel, noting his long criminal history.

"This thug has the gall to ask for leniency when he does the same thing over and over," Bhachu told the court. "He is a parasite. He lives off of others. The public needs to be protected from this man."

Previous exploits

Rachel and Joseph (The Monk) Scalise staged a daring daytime theft of the Marlborough Diamond in 1980.

- Court. Both men were convicted in Britain of threatening to use a hand grenade while robbing London's posh Graff Jewellers of $3.6 million worth of goods, including the diamond.

- Mystery. The diamond was never recovered.

Leinenweber found Rachel guilty in a bench trial, while his co-defendants — Joseph Scalise, 74, and Robert Pullia, 70 — pleaded guilty earlier. Evidence presented during Rachel's trial included a stepladder that the would-be robbers intended to use in a 2010 burglary at the home of the late Chicago mobster Angelo (The Hook) LaPietra.

Authorities arrested the senior citizens, dressed in black, outside the house.

'No loving, no shoving'. Students fight 'ban' on hugs

Human touch

"Skin contact makes people happy." Janna El-Daly

The 12- and 13-year-old girls wanted only to hug, as they do. But they kept getting warnings.

"No loving, no shoving," teachers at Earncliffe Senior Public School in Brampton, Ont., often told them, repeating a motto attached to a rule that is designed to help protect students against roughhousing or unwanted touching.

The sentiment of the motto is fine, say Grade 6 and 7 students Diana Hoyt, Lily Hopkinson and twins Janna and Hana El-Daly. "Parts of it make complete sense," says Lily. "There shouldn't be hitting or any of that." The problem, say the girls, is that the rule stipulating no touching also stops them from doing something they feel is entirely innocent — hugging.

The four came up with a plan for a "hug in" at their school to protest the "ridiculous" rule. There's a Facebook page advertising details for the June 20 lunchtime event and an online petition that's been gaining momentum.

The Peel District School Board says there is no ban on hugging. "The rule is really intended to remind students to keep their hands and feet to themselves," said acting communications director Carla Pereira. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

HAIL CAESAR A CANADIAN CLASSIC THAT GOES WITH ANY OCCASION

IT'S BEEN MORE THAN 40 YEARS SINCE WALTER CHELL, BARTENDER AT THE OWL'S NEST BAR IN THE CALGARY INN, CREATED THE CAESAR

And the classic cocktail isn't showing any signs of slowing down. This summer, consider celebrating special times with some new twists on a Canadian classic.

A SIZZLING BACKYARD BBQ

Nothing says summer fun like a backyard barbecue. Why not combine charbroiled steak with a unique beverage option for your guests — a do-it-yourself Caesar bar, complete with a variety of colourful garnishes. The SMIRNOFF® Caesar is a drink you can prepare well in advance, and then store until you're ready to serve. Garnishes can be as fun and creative as you want. For example, consider serving up a buffet of dill pickles and olives, cucumber spears, cherry tomato skewers, pickled beans, peppers and asparagus. Treat the seafood lovers in the group to pickled prawns and refreshing lime or lemon wedges.

OH, CANADA, WHAT A WAY TO CELEBRATE!

What better way to celebrate July 1 than with distinctly Canadian food and beverage? Imagine a red and white-checked tablecloth laden with Atlantic salmon, Pacific oysters, Alberta beef burgers, wild rice or other Canadian foodstuffs. Add the country's favourite cocktail, and it's O Canada all the way. Consider purchasing glasses and painting maple leaves on them. You can find paints and markers at your local craft store. When you're ready to add that all-important finishing touch — the rim — why not try a little BBQ steak rub with a cucumber garnish? This is one of SMIRNOFF'S summer-inspired cocktails — it's an easy way to enjoy the classic SMIRNOFF® Caesar, but with a twist!

ADD A GAME-DAY WINNER TO THE MENU

Thinking of getting together with friends to cheer on your favourite sports team, watch a soccer tourney, or take in a London 2012 Olympic event? Beer is fine, but why not add a real winner to the roster — a meat lover's SMIRNOFF® Caesar. Trade in the celery stick for a beef jerky strip and swap the rim of celery salt for crushed bacon bits. This combination of savoury flavours provides a tasty drink as well as a protein fix.

SMIRNOFF® CAESAR

Mott's Clamato™ Juice
3 dashes Tabasco™ Sauce
3 dashes Worcestershire™ Sauce
Rim the Collins glass with salt and pepper. Add ice, SMIRNOFF® Vodka and Mott's Clamato™ Juice. Top with 3 dashes each of Worcestershire™ Sauce and Tabasco™ Sauce. Garnish with celery stick and enjoy.

Cape Cod. Residents excited, wary about alleged first-ever bear

The biggest sensation on Cape Cod right now isn't the lobster, the lighthouses or the sand dunes. It's not even a Kennedy. It's a bear.

A bruin, believed to have swam about 152 metres across the Cape Cod Canal from the mainland in late May, has captured the imagination of residents as it traipses across the peninsula. Officials say research dating to the 1700s suggests this is the first bear on the Cape.

"Well, my goodness. How often do you see a bear on Cape Cod?" said Marion Larson, a spokeswoman for the Massachusetts Division of Fisheries and Wildlife. "It's really cool, and people are really excited about it."

A Cape Cod Times reporter told the paper she spotted the bear around 6 a.m. Thursday and said it bounded across the road like a puppy.

The bear, likely a male about three years old, has been seen near a chicken coop, a cranberry bog, a golf course and more than a dozen other locations along a 96-kilometre stretch of the Cape.

Now that the bear has reached the tip of the Cape, wildlife officials say they may attempt to immobilize and move it to an area where other bears live.

Bears don't generally turn around and go back where they came from, and he can't go any farther east.

"He's at the end of the line, as far as real estate," Larson said.

But Provincetown police Officer Ruth Anne Cowing, who handles animal control duties for the town, said officials there are hoping the bear will retrace its steps and get out of town. So far it's stayed mostly in the woods and retreated every time it's seen a person.

"Now he's at the very end, so he needs to make a decision or we'll make it for him," she said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

London 2012. Still plenty of Canadian interest in the Olympics: survey

A new poll suggests Canada's Olympic spirit is high heading into the London Summer Games.

In a recent Canadian Press-Harris/Decima survey, two-thirds of respondents knew where the Olympics were being held this summer and planned to follow them closely.

The pollster chalks the enthusiasm up to a post-Olympic honeymoon from the 2010 Vancouver Olympics.

"I think we definitely are in a 2010 honeymoon in terms of Canadians and their showing of Olympic spirit for sure," Harris/Decima vice-president Patricia Thacker said in an interview. "The Olympics aren't being held here, but there definitely does still seem to be some interest in them."

The telephone survey of just over 1,000 people was conducted between May 24 and 27 and has a margin of error of 3.1 percentage points, 19 times out of 20.

The London Olympics are exactly 50 days away, with the opening ceremony slated for July 27.

The survey indicated the in-

Olympic spirit

The results of the Olympic poll showed the support of the Canadian public for their athletes.

- Seven in 10 people polled agreed with using tax dollars to fund Own The Podium, which oversees the competitive aspects of athletes' lives.
- Seven out of 10 also felt it's important the Canadian team hit their medal target.

tensity of Canadians' interest is not as strong as it was prior to 2010. Two in 10 planned to watch the Summer Games "very closely" compared to three in 10 prior to 2010.

Canada topped all countries in gold medals won at the 2010 Winter Games with 14 and finished third in the overall medal count. The country's goal for London is a more modest top-12 finish among more than 200 nations.

Afghanistan. 18 reported dead in NATO airstrike; villagers displayed bodies, which included women and children

Afghanistan's president said Thursday that 18 people killed in a NATO airstrike in eastern Afghanistan were all civilians.

NATO has so far said it has no records of civilian deaths from the pre-dawn strike Wednesday on a house in Logar province.

The NATO and Afghan troops were going after a local Taliban leader when the international coalition says they came under fire and called in an airstrike on the house.

"This is unacceptable. It cannot be tolerated," Afghan President Hamid Karzai said.

He criticized NATO for not being able to provide an explanation for the vans piled with women and children's bodies that villagers displayed to reporters.

NATO confirmed only deaths of militants from the strike. "The reason (a NATO) team has been dispatched down there is because there is such a discrepancy be-

Do you have Diabetes and "Stomach Problems"?

Many people with diabetes develop a stomach condition called "gastroparesis." This causes the stomach to empty too slowly after eating a meal. Because of the slow emptying of the stomach individuals with this condition tend to fill up rather quickly when eating, after eating and they feel full longer.

Researchers at the University of Alberta are conducting a 28 day study in subjects with this condition to test an investigational drug to see if this medication can improve how fast the stomach empties.

Greek talk-show scuffle highlights political tensions

Athens. Right- and left-wing parties clash on live TV as run-up to June 17 repeat elections turns hostile

The spokesman for Greece's extremist far-right Golden Dawn party caused an uproar Thursday after he allegedly physically assaulted two left-wing deputies on live television during a morning political show. A public prosecutor ordered his immediate arrest.

Tempers frayed on the political show on the private Antena television station during a discussion of the country's politics in the run-up to repeat elections June 17. Golden Dawn spokesman Ilias Kasidiaris took offence to a reference by radical left Syriza party member Rena Dorou over a court case that is pending against him.

Kasidiaris, 31, bounded out of his seat and hurled a glass of water across the table over Dorou when she said there was a "crisis of democracy when people who will take the country back 500 years have got into the Greek parliament."

He then turned on prominent Communist party member Liana Kanelli, who had got up out of her chair with a newspaper in hand and appeared to throw it at the Golden Dawn member.

Talk show host Giorgos Papadakis ran over to Kasidiaris to attempt to calm him, shouting "no, no, no!"

Kasidiaris was elected to parliament in the country's recent inconclusive polls. Deputies from all seven parties that won parliament seats in

Luxembourg. European leaders reject national border-control proposal

Interior ministers from the European Union's 27 member-countries rejected Thursday a proposal to grant the bloc's executive commission oversight over when national governments can reintroduce border controls.

Passport-free travel in much of the continent under the so-called Schengen agreement is considered one of the EU's signal achievements. The agreement, however, states that the individual countries can stop the free movement of people across their borders temporarily "if a serious threat to public order or domestic security exists."

As many European countries face economic crises, illegal migration from countries outside the Schengen zone has put strains on the agreement because countries within the region have been restrained from checking people's passports as they cross onto their soil.

The interior ministers met in Luxembourg on Thursday to consider the proposal by EU Home Affairs Commissioner Cecilia Malmstroem, which would give the European Parliament greater say over when and for how long the controls can be re-established.

Denmark approves new same-sex law

Denmark's parliament has approved a law allowing same-sex couples to get married in formal church weddings instead of the short blessing ceremonies that the state's Lutheran Church currently offers.

Lawmakers voted 85-24 on Thursday to change Denmark's marriage laws.

The law takes effect June 15 and will put Denmark on par with countries such as Iceland and Sweden that allow full wedding ceremonies for gay and lesbian couples.

In 1989, Denmark was the first country to allow the registration of gay partnerships. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New disciplinary measures for teachers?

Sexual misconduct.

Convicted teachers should lose their certification for at least five years: Report

Teachers found guilty of sexual misconduct involving students should almost always lose their certification for at least five years, a report released Thursday recommends.

In addition, the review of the disciplinary system for Ontario's teachers urges that allegations of sexual misconduct be dealt with in an open hearing, not through a dispute-resolution process.

Those are among 49 recommendations from former provincial chief justice Patrick LeSage, whose nine-month review followed criticism of the Ontario College of Teachers over its disciplinary practices.

Critics argued the system lacked transparency, the identities of teachers disciplined for misconduct were shielded, or that bad teachers received slaps on the wrist.

The report tackles the issues head on.

LeSage calls for disciplinary information — including the names of teachers charged with misconduct — to be publicized, hearings to be open, and decisions be readily accessible via the college's website.

Decisions in less serious cases arrived at through a dispute-resolution process rather than full-scale hearings should also be publicized, the report says.

In addition, reinstatement hearings, currently closed to the public, should also as a rule be open, LeSage says.

"The overriding principle must be transparency and openness," LeSage states in his 76-page report.

"All hearings must be open unless there are exceptional circumstances."

While LeSage was reluctant to mandate minimum penalties, he said sexual offences involving students should "almost invariably" lead to a minimum five-year teaching ban.

Information about the ban should remain indefinitely on the public record, he says.

"Cases involving sexual abuse and sexual misconduct by a teacher involving a student are most serious offences," LeSage says.

American Samoa. Former teacher sentenced for statutory rape of student

The High Court of American Samoa sentenced Tone Pulou to 28 months on Wednesday, and ordered him to register as a sex offender. Pulou pleaded guilty last month to rape under a plea agreement with prosecutors.

Associate Justice Lyle Richmond said Pulou can apply for work release at any time during his jail term. Once he's employed, Pulou must pay $100 month in child support for his son.

"The defendant had a promising future," Richmond said. "However, he made a terrible and a serious mistake."

Pulou, 26, originally was also charged with first-degree sexual abuse and endangering the welfare of a child. Both charges were dropped under the plea deal. He admitted that on a date between September 2009 and February 2010, while a teacher at Alofa Elementary, he had sexual intercourse with the girl.

According to court documents, hospital staff contacted Child Protective Services in mid-2010 about a pregnant minor after the girl and her mother went to LBJ Medical Center to see an obstetrician. The girl told police she and Pulou had sex in his pickup truck.

Pulou was arrested at a Honolulu McDonald's restaurant last year, five days after officials said he arrived on Oahu and was staying with friends in Waianae. During a phone interview while in custody in Honolulu in October, he told The Associated Press the relationship was consensual and that he wanted to go home to fight the charges.

He was extradited to Pago Pago shortly afterward. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. law. Tape recordings of 9-11 mastermind may be omitted from evidence

Military prosecutors won't say whether they plan to use newly disclosed tape recordings in the upcoming trial of 9-11 mastermind Khalid Sheikh Mohammed even though the tapes could solve the prosecution's problems with tainted evidence.

A new book says Justice Department prosecutors were stunned to learn three years ago that the U.S. military had secretly tape-recorded incriminating comments that Mohammed made to fellow detainees during daily prison-yard conversations but was not planning to use them at military tribunals.

In "Kill or Capture: The War on Terror and the Soul of the Obama Presidency," journalist Daniel Klaidman says Mohammed was caught on tape boasting to other detainees about his part in the 9-11 attacks.

Ports do not divert cargo, U.S. told

Trade irritant.

U.S. senators had complained Canada was unfairly subsidizing diversion of ships

A commissioner on a U.S. federal agency probing whether Canadian ports on the West Coast are luring lucrative cargo business away from their American counterparts says the problem may be minimal.

The Canadian government and other officials have told the Federal Maritime Commission that over a period of 10 years, only 2.5 per cent of U.S.-bound cargo was imported via Canadian ports, the agency's Rebecca Dye said Thursday.

Speaking at a Canadian American Business Council conference on China, Dye didn't say when the commission would complete its investigation and deliver its findings to U.S. Congress.

Canadian response

Andrew Mayer, an official at the Prince Rupert Port Authority, pointed out that Canadian officials hardly give cargo ships a free ride.

- While the U.S. taxes shippers, Canada charges them a user fee, he said: "We charge them to help fund the maintenance of these ports, but we don't have a tax."

ings to U.S. Congress.

But the matter has been a simmering trade irritant between the U.S. and Canada ever since a pair of senators from Washington state complained that Canadians are unfairly subsidizing the diversion of cargo ships away from their American competitors, particularly in Prince Rupert, B.C.

Aircraft. No buyers for Aveos' airframe unit

Hope appears to be fading for most former Aveos employees after no potential buyers expressed interest in the aircraft maintenance firm's airframe unit, says a report by the monitor overseeing the company's restructuring.

The business employed about 1,500 of the 2,600 people who worked at Aveos before it closed its operations in March and obtained court protection from creditors under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act.

Work on repairing and overhauling airframes has increasingly gone to low-cost operations in Asia, Latin America and elsewhere.

Aveos has said that its airframe business was not viable, suggesting the most buyer interest will be focused on the components and engine repair divisions.

Air Canada has reached an agreement with Aveos Fleet Performance Inc. that could facilitate the sale of those two divisions, according to a June 5 report from FTI Consulting Canada Inc., the court-appointed monitor assisting with the Aveos restructuring.

The airline had earlier filed a motion last month to terminate contracts with its former subsidiary, but later withdrew the effort and agreed to continue negotiations.

Employees

1,500

"The Air Canada agreement results in a higher probability that both the engines and components business will be sold to a party that can restart operations, as it will have the support of Air Canada, Aveos' largest customer," wrote Greg Watson and Toni Vanderlaan of FTI Consulting.

However, they cautioned there are still many risks with the sale.

Union representative Jean Poirier said Air Canada's move is good, but it doesn't guarantee that engine and component work will return.

"If Air Canada has backed down to guarantee contracts for engines and components, it's good news, but you really have to see which contracts they will send (through)," he said in an interview.

Five Wives. Idaho rescinds ban on 'offensive' vodka

Idaho reversed direction in the face of a lawsuit Wednesday and said it will sell Five Wives Vodka, but the liquor producer whose label makes an unmistakable reference to polygamy would not immediately rule out legal action.

The Idaho State Liquor Division rejected as offensive last week the product that shows five women hiking up their skirts on the vodka bottle. Idaho is more than 25 per cent Mormon and the church at one time allowed polygamy but abandoned the practice in 1890.

The vodka originates from Ogden's Own Distillery in Utah, where the Mormon church is based.

The state's decision allows the company to sell the vodka only by special order.

Steve Conlin, a partner and marketing chief for Ogden's Own Distillery, said Wednesday the company's attorneys would review Idaho's decision before making a statement, likely on Thursday.

But he said selling the vodka as a special order request meant it wouldn't be available on store shelves but only as a special order. Bars would face the same hurdle.

The company is also apparently still smarting from comments made by state officials questioning the quality of Five Wives Vodka as part of the state's initial decision not to sell it in Idaho.

1 Bonnaroo. Eighty thousand people are camping out on a 700 acre site in Manchester, Tenn., this weekend for the epic music festival Bonnaroo, which features 150 acts on 13 stages. The likes of Radiohead, Red Hot Chili Peppers, Phish and the Beach Boys will all be there. Best overnight-guitar-campfire-sing-song ever.

2 Home ATM. NBA player DeShawn Stevenson installed an ATM machine in his Dallas home to allow his buddies to withdraw money before they go out partying. Each ATM withdrawal at his house will cost you a $4.50 fee. I'm taking that idea to the bank.

3 Rob Lowe takes Winnipeg. There have been spottings of him in town all week, where he's filming The Casey Anthony Story for Lifetime TV, playing the part of prosecutor Jeff Ashton. One woman tweeted the Lowe-down, "Guess who just met Rob Lowe? Yeah, that's right. Moi. 80s dream realized. And yes, we touched. Le sigh. #Winnipeg."

4 B.C. limo driver. A limo driver in Vernon, B.C., called police Saturday night because of drunken passengers in his vehicle. Just one problem: When the police showed up, the driver himself had been drinking. And he failed a roadside breath test. He's now facing an impaired-driving charge.

5 Graceland. Commemorative CD/DVD editions of Paul Simon's landmark Graceland album came out this week, marking the album's 25th anniversary. They include the new Graceland documentary, Under African Skies, chronicling its recording and impact on world music and pop culture. Must-watch.

6 Natural-born narcissist. Suspected killer Luka Rocco Magnotta was arrested at an Internet café in Berlin this week. Which really shouldn't surprise anyone, as the ultimate self-promoter was there checking out reports on the manhunt for himself.

7 Russell Brand. At the MTV Movie Awards, Brand wasted no time in his opening monologue addressing his divorce from Katy Perry. "The last time I did an MTV awards show, I did end up marrying someone that was there. So tonight I'm going to keep my eyes peeled for my next wife!" No word if he kissed a girl that night.

8 Celine Dion. Celine Dion's heart goes out to Kate Winslet, who has said the Titanic theme song, My Heart Will Go On, makes her sick. Dion said on the Today show this week: "If I just count how many times I've sung it, maybe it'll get me sick. If she's tired just hearing it, and, like, throwing up, I'm glad she was not the one singing it." You should hear me belt it out.

9 Twitter's new birdie. The famous little blue bird doesn't need any accessories anymore, as Twitter announced this week "there's no longer a need for text, bubbled typefaces, or a lowercase 't' to represent Twitter." So now it's just the birdie. In other news, the blue jay in my backyard still has a bird bath.

10 Miley Cyrus. It was just yesterday that my girls were watching her as Hannah Montana, and now the 19-year-old has gone and gotten engaged. Yes, she announced her engagement to her boyfriend, actor Liam Hemsworth. No word if dad Billy Ray will sing Achy Breaky Heart at her wedding.

11 Melissa Stetten. The model hilariously live-tweeted as an unknown actor Brian Pressly — a devout Christian who's married with a child — hit on her during a flight. Sample tweet: "Brian has a wedding ring. I ask him how his wife is, he says he just wears the ring because he likes it. Right, Brian." Horrible acting job, Brian.

Prometheus is all about the aesthetics. HANDOUT

Script taints aesthetic gem

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Prometheus.

Ridley Scott's latest imagining is pretty, but the '70s sci-fi dialogue makes it go clunk

Richard: Chris, thematically Prometheus is equally about creation and destruction. As a piece of entertainment goes, however, I'm not sure it will create lasting memories. It won't destroy the goodwill of the first couple of Alien films, but I don't think it will add much to the legacy either. For me there is very little big bang in a movie that is reportedly about the most significant discovery in the history of mankind. You?

Chris: I was blindsided. My expectations were low to none. I didn't want Alien redux, I wanted something different and I got it. The visuals were so grandiose, the aesthetics so nightmarish and baroque that I was dazzled. Only when the pithy dialogue steered the ship did I reject it ... but then something would ooze, a storm would rage and I was back in. And hey, it's not 1979 anymore. We've seen it all and I'm pleased that Scott chose to dwell on dread rather than simple chest-bursting shock. But man ... that dialogue!

RC: It may not be 1979 anymore, but I agree, the dialogue sounded like leftover, bad late '70s sci-fi films. I expected a higher level of writing from a movie that is more about ideas than action. Having said that, I loved Michael Fassbender's automaton space butler. He's got many of the film's best lines and if they ever need someone to play the lead in The Peter O'Toole Story, he's the guy.

CA: Fassbender is fantastic, Rapace is scrappy ... but for me, this was all about aesthetics. Then again, with Scott, it was always about aesthetics. Alien

Synopsis

The basic storyline of Alien is in place in Prometheus, just don't call this movie a sequel or a prequel lest you annoy Sir Ridley. A group of hapless space travellers faceoff with some intergalactic nasties who give hugging a bad name. But these face huggers aren't the movie's main draw. Led by Elizabeth Shaw (Noomi Rapace) and Charlie Holloway (Logan Marshall-Green), the expedition into the far corners of the universe aims to prove a connection between ancient human civilizations and extraterrestrials. Chris Alexander sits in for Mark Breslin.

• Richard: ●●●●

had no story, it found its power in dread, atmosphere and design. Blade Runner had no story, only a philosophy and a MacGuffin and again, exists as a testament to mood, music and architecture. With Prometheus, there are things in here that I haven't seen or experienced since, well, since Blade Runner; things I will never forget. And while there may be no chest-burster freak-outs, one word: Caesarean!

RC: (Mild spoiler) Four words! Do it yourself caesarean! The movie's slow build nicely leads up to that memorable scene, adding an element of horror to the heady mix of ideas but I expected more from Scott. Perhaps Alien set the bar too high for the director to leap over.

CA: I prefer to see it as Alien vs. Predator draining the IQ of the franchise so that Prometheus appears like Potemkin by comparison. But in all seriousness, Prometheus gave me a massive sensory jolt. Great Scott, give me more!

Stars out to end violence against women

Academy Award winners Nicole Kidman and Mira Sorvino urged an end to violence against women at a concert Wednesday night in New York City to support the UN agency that promotes equality for women and an end to attacks against millions of women and girls. General Assembly President Nassir Abdulaziz Al-Nasser of Qatar brought the Qatar Philharmonic Orchestra to the UN to celebrate his leadership of the 193-member world body this year and dedicated the concert to supporting UN Women, which came into existence in 2010.

Spoiler alert!

So, Ridley Scott's long-awaited Prometheus is finally here, and the results are ... disappointing. While visually stunning, the story — about a group of scientists heading into space in search of man's origins and filled with holes. Since we're always looking to be helpful, here's what we'd do differently:

Make it scarier

Scott continually referred to Prometheus as a horror movie in the lead up to its release, yet the finished product is surprisingly short on scares, save for one fantastic surgery scene. A lot of this might have to do with the fact that, for most of the film, it's not really clear what the threat is — aside from some very powerful wind.

Ease off the old-age makeup

Unless there's a scene of a younger Peter Weyland (Guy Pierce) that was cut from the film — and maybe that TED talk viral video was originally supposed to be included — it seems unnecessary to cast Pierce in the role just to cover him up with unconvincing prosthetics.

Work on the dialogue

The film falters the first time when the ship's pilot, Janek (Idris Elba), shows up with some succinct information about what's in those mysterious vases he hasn't seen in person and why the "engineers" he's never met built them. Why not offer a clue how he came to such a conclusion?

Kill characters with respect

Maybe starting off with fewer characters would've made it possible to avoid instances like Janek's two co-pilots (Eamon Elliott and Benedict Wong) deciding to go down with the ship — despite their being a viable escape — just because the story needed them to not be around anymore.

Where to go from here

What would really be awesome would be for Dr. Shaw and the severed head of the android David (Michael Fassbender) star as wacky roommates on a laugh track-filled CBS sitcom. The possibilities for hilarity are endless!

A tribute to hockey's legendary goon

Ogilthorpe. Short Canadian film based on the life of rock 'em, sock 'em player Bill 'Goldie' Goldthorpe

scene@metronews.ca

One of the most iconic characters from the cult 1970s film Slapshot will be coming to life in a new Canadian film entitled Ogilthorpe.

Ogie Ogilthorpe, the villainous goon who cameos in the conclusion of Slapshot, was a character based on real-life goon Bill "Goldie" Goldthorpe.

Like in Slapshot, the real Ogilthorpe's legend precedes him. When Goldthorpe played, his fists did the talking, and his bleach blond afro had the potential to make clowns blush. He once threatened

Don Cherry and got away with it.

And while incarcerated in Syracuse during the American Hockey League season, coaching staff from his team would escort Goldthorpe back and forth from prison between games.

The film, which was shot in Humboldt, Saskatchewan, is the brainchild of executive producer Dave Fergusson. Fergusson thinks that style of rock 'em, sock 'em hockey featured in the film is a thing of the past.

"It was the wild west back then. He (Goldthorpe) was the wildest, most unpredictable player in the league back then. He was the fiercest goon ever to play the game of hockey," said Fergusson.

Fergusson has been transfixed by the legend of Ogilthorpe for some time now.

"That's the beauty of Ogilthorpe. The beauty of his life story is the drama — and it's both on the ice and off the ice.

"There are incidents where this guy went to a rink in a different league to watch a hockey game and he's a member of neither team and ends up getting involved with the brawl."

Saskatoon fitness trainer and former hockey player Kelly Riou plays the legend of Ogilthorpe. The resemblances between the actor and man in real life are striking.

"I have a curly Afro myself but I keep it completely short because I don't like the curls and the next thing I know they're taking it right back to where it was and blond to boot."

Online

The trailer of Ogilthorpe is debuting on metronews.ca and ogilthorpethemovie.com.

Drama

Cosmopolis

Director, David Cronenberg

Stars, Robert Pattinson, Jay Baruchel, Samantha Morton

In Cosmopolis, director David Cronenberg takes us on an existential road trip through the breakdown of modern society. Twilight heartthrob Robert Pattinson plays Eric Packer, a 28-year-old billionaire money manager. Powerful, controlling and self-destructive, he's driving across Manhattan to get a haircut in the back of a tricked-out stretch limousine while his world crumbles. It's a challenging film that exists on the macro and the micro, a complex character study of one man's battle to be relevant and alive and a look at the world that is rapidly changing around him.

Animation

Madagascar 3

Directors, Eric Darnell, Tom McGrath, Conrad Vernon

Stars, Ben Stiller, Jada Pinkett Smith, Chris Rock

Alex the lion (voiced by Ben Stiller), zebra Marty (Chris Rock), giraffe Melman (David Schwimmer) and hippo Gloria (Jada Pinkett Smith) are still stranded in the African savannah and after a side trip to Monaco they join a circus with hopes of returning to their New York home. The Madagascar series has never been my favourite animated franchise but there is more invention and fun in the first 20 minutes of Madagascar 3 than in all of Battleship and Men in Black 3 combined. The new film is funny—it's worth the price of admission.

Akerman takes a look at the other side

Rock of Ages. Actress plays a Rolling Stone reporter in her latest role and realizes it can be a pretty tough gig interviewing the rich, famous and difficult

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Malin Akerman got a look at how the other half lives in Rock of Ages, playing a Rolling Stone reporter tasked with interviewing the infamously difficult rock star Stacey Jaxx (Tom Cruise). Of course, their interview devolves into a raucous, half-naked rendition of I Want to Know What Love Is, with Cruise using Akerman's rear end as a microphone at one point. Our interview was, to put it mildly, much more staid.

Has playing this part given

you new sympathy for the folks interviewing you?

Absolutely. I mean, I've always had sympathy for you guys because I know it's hard. There's that whole mix of wanting to get a really good story, and then on our side of the coin not wanting to give too much of a personal life story. It's hard. It's not easy, finding the right balance. But it was fun to play, definitely. It was nice to be on the other side of the coin. I liked it, but a few people I talked to today, they go, "God, I've had an experience like that." There was one woman who went to someone's house and ended up having to interview a rock star in bed. He was still in bed hungover and wouldn't get out of bed.

Have you had much experience singing before doing this project, and was that something that gave you pause?

It definitely did not give me pause. I wanted to do it so badly. I've always wanted to do a musical. I've done a couple of

Around the World in 80 Plates. Show's 'cheftestants' travel the world and face culinary challenges based on each destination's culture

MEREDITH ENGEL

Metro World News New York

On Around the World in 80 Plates — a cross between The Amazing Race and Top Chef — “cheftestants” travel the world and complete challenges based on the culture of the city they’re in. Though the series is sending its competitors everywhere from England to Morocco, you don’t have to leave your kitchen to add some of the global flair host Curtis Stone says you can bring to any dish.

“That’s the great thing about a show like this — there’s all sorts of inspiration to be taken from so many different sorts of people. The home cook will learn a lot by watching this.”

Stone breaks down lessons learned from his time abroad.

Italy: Customs are important.

“The culture in Tuscany was just so steeped in tradition, and some of our contestants tried to do stuff that was a little out there — they were just like, ‘That’s not in season right now!’ ‘Basil in a ribollita? Why?’”

Curtis Stone, host of the new TV show Around the World in 80 Plates. GETTY IMAGES

Quoted

“The home cook will learn a lot by watching this.”

Curtis Stone

France: Explore your food “(In our episode in France) they do a tasting of different cheeses and have to identify which ones are made with sheep’s milk. I think that opens your eyes to be like, ‘Oh, sheep’s milk, cow’s milk, goat’s milk — what’s the difference?’ They also do a wine challenge where they have to try and match a bowl of ingredients that have the same bouquets and aromas that the wine has. Watching something like that makes you think, ‘OK, I’m gonna look out for some of those flavours next time I’m drinking a wine.’”

Thailand: One base, many dishes.

“In Chiang Mai, Thai food really comes alive, and they do so much in a mortar and pestle. They use things like galangal, which is very similar to ginger, and they also use ginger, lemongrass (something that I don’t think we use enough of in the Western world), lime leaves (used more similarly to how we use bay leaves), palm sugar, lime rinds themselves, garlic, cilantro (both the stems and the leaves) — of course lots of fresh chilies — and all that’s pounded together to create this delicious paste. It’s so adaptable, whether it goes into a green papaya salad or a curry. That’s how the Thais cook, which is really inspirational.”

Rocky Community

The third season of sharp comedy series Community was rather rocky in front of the camera and behind it, culminating in the departure of creator Dan Harmon at season’s end. But one of the year’s unrivalled high points came with an episode repeating Friday, in which Troy and Abed’s housewarming party turned into a surreal examination of seven parallel realities (it’s funnier than it sounds). The episode has been nominated for a Hugo Award — given for achievement in sci-fi or fantasy — alongside three different episodes of Dr. Who. (NBC)

Shooting hoops

Basketball fans who have enjoyed this year’s playoffs might like taking a look back at some of the most memorable series in recent history with Friday’s “30 for 30” documentary entitled Winning Time. The special focuses on retired NBA sharp-shooter Reggie Miller, who managed to rub an entire city the wrong way during memorable showdowns between his Indiana Pacers and the Knicks — as well as New York’s most visible fan, director Spike Lee. (TSN)

Flick frenzy

There’s a range of cinematic offerings Saturday. MovieTime is airing back-to-back Sandra Bullock offerings (Miss Congeniality followed by the Oscar-winning 2009 tear-jerker The Blind Side) while Divas counters with two films from Adam Sandler: 2008’s mega-goofy You Don’t Mess With the Zohan and 2004’s also-goofy

50 First Dates. Action has the epics Kingdom of Heaven and Clash of the Titans, Bravo airs Four Weddings and a Funeral, History has the grim Martin Scorsese flick Casino and Peachtree TV has the 1995 Best Picture winner Braveheart.

Mad Men finale

Mad Men’s turbulent fifth season comes to a close with Sunday’s finale. In this installment of the moody period drama, there are opportunities for everyone while Pete meets a stranger on a train. That will be preceded by a new episode of sophomore drama The Killing, and since it’s the penultimate installment of the season, answers must surely be just around the corner. (AMC Canada)

True Blood returns

Catch the season premiere of Community’s Troy. HANDOUT

the sudsy vampire saga True Blood, which finds Sookie and Lafayette cleaning up a mess (HBO Canada).

And the stellar first season of the freshman comedy Veep comes to a close with Sunday’s finale, in which Selina travels to Ohio to support a gubernatorial candidate.

Tell Me a Tale about Michael Kiwanuka

Unique sound. The Brits are enamoured with the understated singer's raw, soulful voice, and he's set to hit Bonnaroo music festival

Michael Kiwanuka didn't trust his voice.

For the increasingly large crowd of music fans familiar with the pure, soulful sound of the British singer's ageless voice, this is probably hard to believe. Yet it's true. Kiwanuka thought he was a guitar player and nothing more.

"The people who were big when I was in my mid-teens were like Usher, and Justin Timberlake started coming out," Kiwanuka said in his sing-song lilt. "And there's R&B singers who are amazing. And I would sing and it would sound not really like that at all ... so people just found it weird. When I listened to it back on speakers for demos and stuff, it just sounded like nothing else that was around."

We can all be thankful for that. Kiwanuka eventually found confidence in his voice, and as he prepares to play his first Bonnaroo Music & Arts Festival, he arrives with plenty of advance hype, joining top acts like Radiohead, the Red Hot Chili Peppers, Phish, the Beach Boys and more on the bill in Manchester, Tenn.

"I think obviously the first thing that stands out is his voice," The Black Keys guitarist Dan Auerbach said. "It's pretty amazing. It's got a lot of character." Auerbach was so taken with Kiwanuka's vibe, he reached out and set up a recording session in London on a rare day off. The resulting song, the slow-grooving Lasan, made the U.S. version of the album, which was recently released digitally.

"He sent me just this little demo he had with just his guitar and his voice," Auerbach said. "And we decided we'd just go in the studio and record it ... It was this weird synchronicity thing. We came up with the arrangement on the spot. It was nice."

Things didn't always come so easily for Kiwanuka, a child of Ugandan parents who grew up in north London. In fact, he admits to struggling some in his first recording sessions with producer Paul Butler (also lead singer of The Bees).

"The longest studio session I had with him was two weeks, and I was like, 'Great, I've got two weeks to come up with something solid if anything else,'" Kiwanuka said during a recent interview at the South By Southwest Music Conference in Austin, Texas.

"So we got there and all the songs I had tanked, they just didn't work in the studio. I felt the session kind of falling apart. I had one day off to do what I wanted and I just stayed in my room."

It wasn't until he came up with his breakthrough song Tell Me a Tale that things really got rolling. He emerged with not only words and chords for Tale, but also a Fela-esque retro groove that propelled the song in an exciting way and seemed also to break down the barriers he faced in the studio. Butler could see Kiwanuka's confidence growing daily.

Kiwa-'who'-ka?

Kiwanuka was voted in BBC's Best of Sound 2012 as Britain's top act to watch this year.

- Background. Long before his debut album Home Again went gold in his home country, the 25-year-old was already earning attention on both sides of the Atlantic with a series of EPs that showcased his songwriting ability, his understated guitar playing and that voice, which recalls soul singers like Otis Redding and Bill Withers.

"The thing about Tell Me a Tale, it kept its rawness," Butler said in a phone interview. "It has the grit and the dirt in it. It just has like a good intention with it that wasn't necessarily what he was playing. I hope he keeps that for future recordings, the rawness."

Also he's blessed with this amazing African rhythm. You can't really learn what he's doing. It's a lovely thing that first came out in his guitar playing. You've either got it or you haven't." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Somewhere only Keane knows

Strangeland. Album stays true to band's form with romantic piano ballads and heart-on-sleeve crooning

LUKE O'NEIL
Metro World News Boston

In the years since the release of their 2004 debut Hopes and Fears, with its massive crossover hits Somewhere Only We Know and Everybody's Changing, it's become easy to point to what you might call the Keane sound: plaintive piano pop, melodramatic ballads reaching for the cheap seats and more often than not, landing. You might also call it middling dreck, depending on your taste. But their past two releases, 2010's Night Train EP, and 2008's Perfect Symmetry were slight detours for the U.K. hit-makers, with the former experimenting with more complex rhythms and percussion, and the latter leaning into a careening new wave and synth-driven pop-funk synths.

This year's Strangeland, which came out last month and became the band's fifth No. 1 album, is something of a return to form. It has a relatively stripped-down sound: romantic piano ballads and heart-on-sleeve crooning characterized by singles like the pleading, pretty Silenced By the Night.

"I think we definitely went on a bit of a journey with Perfect Symmetry and Night Train, and that was fun and exciting, but I sort of felt as a writer that I was missing something by the end of that process," songwriter and pianist Tim Rice-Oxley explains.

In the interim he worked on a side project with Keane bassist Jesse Quin called Mt. Desolation.

"It had more of a country vibe," he says. "The songs I wrote for that were much more emotional. I found it satisfying, and wanted to reconnect with that kind of writing."

The latest Keane album, he says, was an attempt to "get in touch with something directly emotional without being sort of arty and obtuse."

Clear Skies

Familiar Strangeland

The album was recorded at Rice-Oxley's own studio, which provided plenty of time for trial and error: he wrote some 80 to 90 songs before winnowing it down. The return to the rural was beneficial for his process, he says. "I just moved back down to the countryside a couple of years ago near where we grew up. It's a lovely little town, rural and tucked away. It's good for us to be able to hunker down, be a gang, and not be distracted," he explains. "I find it important to lock myself away and really focus on stuff. I find I think really clearly in the countryside. I find the city inspiring, but I feel like I connect with something in my core when I'm back in the country under the open sky."

Is It Any Wonder?

Rice-Oxley on small-town talent

"We all grew up in small, reasonably rural towns, and I think that effects your way of looking at the world. Traditionally, a lot of great bands come out of small-town life, and the feeling of being a little on the outside, looking in, especially in the U.K."

When the twins come out to play

Breasts. Is it possible that society is taking this sideboob obsession too far?

MICHELLE CASTILLO

Metro World News

"Decline of Western Civilization #248: The HuffPo has a whole section dedicated to 'sideboob.'" So tweeted one writer, in response to the Huffington Post's new page dedicated to, yes, sideboobs: photos of celebs flashing a little skin, usually at movie premieres or in magazine shoots.

On Thursday, founder Arianna Huffington claimed the section was a joke — it was put together by the site's comedy team in response to comedian Jon Stewart, who said he goes to HuffPo for all his sideboob needs.

But the fact that most people thought it was real says something about the state of the news org, if not civilization.

Kristen Stewart shows off some prime side boob during the Cannes Film Festival last month. ANDREAS RENTZ/GETTY IMAGES

Yay or nay

SIDEBOOB: PRO VS. CON

YES

Miley Cyrus — one of the most common sideboob offenders — famously said she can't be tamed. So, why do we expect that her twins will comply with fabric restraints? We personally don't see all the hoopla about flashing a sly sideways glance, a safe-for-work version instead of a naughty, full frontal presentation.

Sleek and aerodynamic, sideboob-baring outfits aren't only fashionable: they're environmentally friendly. Letting the natural air cool your body cuts down on needing the air conditioner. Using less fabric cuts down on the need to harvest and use more materials.

In all seriousness, breasts are a natural part of our anatomy, and it's time that we stop being prudish. If we can accept that a simple black censor bar over a nipple makes things kosher, we shouldn't be horrified at seeing someone's jiggy parts. There's much more eye-opening bits out there to get upset about. The whole section was intended to be a joke: There's no use of making mountains out of molehills.

NO

We don't know what's more disturbing: that sideboobs have entered the international news discussion or that people actually seek out sideboob entertainment. By bringing attention to this ridiculous craze, the sideboob vertical shows our unhealthy obsession with celebrity culture. Journalism now consists of writing full articles about these exposing moments because that's what readers want — whether they wax poetically about the shapely curves or pretend to be disgusted by it while they linger on the pictures.

As for the celebrities themselves, they seem to have a constant need for attention. Crotch-high slits aren't enough, now you have to expose both sides of your breasts and perhaps one of the cheeks to get the paparazzi to snap a shot? Instead of using their fame to promote worthy causes, they stage shots where they knowingly show off their goods for a little more time in the spotlight. If the sideboob section was a joke in response to The Daily Show with Jon Stewart's comments as Arianna Huffington claims, the satire was lost between the cleavage of both sides of the debate. The section was a cheap way to drum up more publicity and traffic for the Huffington Post. Our best bet is to put our opinions aside and just stop talking about it. The less that sideboobs are shoved in our faces, the better off we will all be.

"IF I WANT
YOUR OPINION,
I'LL GIVE IT
TO YOU."

Jimmy Kimmel, what have you done?

MONICA WEYMOUTH

We don't envy Jimmy Kimmel. Whereas the idea of Kardashians is enough to haunt this office, all three were live in his studio on Wednesday night. While he had them there, he took the opportunity to ask Kourtney if she had any plans to marry longtime boyfriend Scott Disick.

"Do you wanna be in my therapy session?" she replied with a seriously scary laugh (did we mention she is 33 and pregnant with his second child?).

"First of all, I have realized that I have major commitment problems during this pregnancy. I'm really claustrophobic, and all my issues — and I have a lot of them — they all stem from this thing. I can't commit to anything. But I love Scott, and he is my partner."

Kimmel made it out of the conversation as close to alive as you can expect after a close encounter of the Kardashian kind. But if Kourtney is sporting a ring next week, we're going to want a word off air.

Shrimp & Jicama Spring Rolls. These fresh bites make the perfect appetizers

Imagine crossing a monster potato with a water chestnut.

That's jicama for you. And while not much to look at on the outside, the crisp, crunchy texture and clean, sweet flavour inside makes this veggie worth seeking out.

First, the basics. Jicama is a tuber — a big, brown, round root. A relative of the bean family, it is native to Mexico and South America.

Though most often eaten raw, such as chopped into salads, jicama can be steamed, boiled, sautéed or fried.

The flavour is on the neutral side, with a hint of starchy sweetness.

1. Dipping sauce: In a blender combine the peanut butter, jam, soy sauce and vinegar. Blend until smooth. Add hot sauce, to taste, then set aside.

2. Place noodles in bowl and cover with hot water. Soak 5 mins., or until softened. Drain in mesh strainer and set aside.

3. Use spoon to scrape out and discard the seeds from the cucumber halves. Cut each piece into thin strips. Cut jicama into thin slices, then cut each slice into matchsticks.

4. Fill bowl (at least several inches larger than the rice wrappers) with warm water. Soak 1 wrapper in water until soft and pliable, 20 seconds.

5. Carefully remove rice wrapper from the water and lay flat on the counter. Place small bundle of noodles along one edge of wrapper. Top noodles with a bit each of cucumber, jicama and carrots. Place 3 shrimp over vegetables, then top with a mint leaf.

6. Roll wrapper, starting with filling side, folding ends over the filling as you roll to form tight cylinder. Repeat with remaining wrappers and fillings. Serve with dipping sauce. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ingredients*Dipping sauce:

- 1/4 cup peanut butter
- 1/4 cup apricot jam
- 2 tbsp soy sauce
- 2 tbsp rice or cider vinegar
- Hot sauce, to taste

Spring rolls:

- 2 oz dried bean or rice thread noodles
- 1/2 cucumber, peeled and halved lengthwise
- 4-oz peeled jicama root
- 12 large rice-paper wrappers (8-inch round or larger)
- 1/2 cup shredded carrots
- 1 lb cooked and cooled extra-large shrimp, shelled and deveined
- 12 large fresh mint leaves

Skip white wine & reach for...green?

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy
peterrockwell@eastlink.ca

A philosophical frog once said, "It's not easy being green." White winemakers hum the same tune because consumer love for clean, clear liquid in their glasses has forced them to filter their whites within an inch of their lives for years.

Truth be told, many grapes we consider white have much darker skins than you might imagine, with the best example being pinot grigio. Unfiltered, your average PG would be a few shades shy of rosé.

One white that wears its colour on its label is Vinho Verde made in the Portuguese province of Minho. Translating to "green wine" its name is really a reference to the bright, refreshing flavours characteristic of the region's juice more than the pigment of Kermit's imagination.

Pale straw to the naked eye, Sogrape's Gazela 2011 Vinho Verde ($8.53 - $11.99) is a zesty, light-bodied wine with a zing of effervescence that tingles the tongue and adds lift to the subtle expression of citrus, lime and grapefruit.

A summer wine style, Vinho Verde is perfect with anything that swims or crawls in the ocean and makes a relaxing back deck sipper. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Roasted Beet Tortellini Salad. Side dish balances both sweet and savoury

1. Heat oven to 400 F.

2. Spread beets on rimmed baking sheet. Sprinkle beets with 1 tbsp of olive oil, then season with salt and pepper. Roast 30 minutes, or until tender when pierced with a fork. Set aside to cool.

3. Bring saucepan of salted water to boil. Add tortellini and cook according to packet directions. Drain tortellini, then spread on rimmed baking. Drizzle with 1 tablespoon of the olive oil, then set aside to cool.

Ingredients

- 2 lbs beets, peeled and cut into 1-inch pieces
- 4 tbsp olive oil, divided
- Salt and ground black pepper
- Two 20-oz packages fresh cheese tortellini
- 1/4 cup rice vinegar
- 2 tsp each chopped fresh mint, chives and oregano
- 1 tbsp sugar
- 12-oz container blueberries
- 1/2 cup chopped toasted pecans
- 4 oz soft goat cheese

4. In blender combine remaining olive oil, rice vinegar, mint, chives, oregano and sugar. Blend until mixed. Season with salt and pepper.

5. In bowl, toss beets, tortellini, blueberries, pecans and herb vinaigrette. Toss to coat, then crumble goat cheese over top. Serve at room temperature. If making ahead, refrigerate; let it stand at room temperature 30 mins. before serving.

All the flavour, minus the fat

The weekend is a great time to grill. And you don't have to sacrifice your healthy eating habits to do so.

Grilling is an easy way to cook healthy foods without sacrificing great results. That's partly because the high heat of the grill seals in moisture. This keeps the food moist and tender without the need for excess fat.

For a super succulent meat option without going the cholesterol and fat-rich steak route, try marinating pork tenderloin. Pork tenderloin is a neutral base that can really soak up flavours, so feel free to play with your seasonings in the marinade.

Ingredients

4 portions
Start to finish: 30 minutes

- 16 oz pork tenderloin, cut into 1 1/2-inch chunks
- 1 small eggplant, cut into 1-inch chunks
- 2 portobello mushrooms, quartered
- 2 small red onions, quartered
- 1 large red bell pepper, cored and cut into large chunks
- 1 large green bell pepper, cored and cut into large chunks
- 2 tbsp olive oil
- 1/2 cup red wine vinegar
- 1 tsp salt
- 1 tsp ground black pepper
- 2 tsp minced fresh rosemary
- 2 tsp minced fresh thyme
- 3 cloves garlic, minced

1. Thread the pork, eggplant, mushrooms, red onions and both bell peppers onto wooden or metal skewers, alternating the meat and vegetables as you go. Arrange the skewers in a shallow dish that allows them to lay flat. A nine-by-13-inch pan usually works well.

2. In a small bowl, whisk together the olive oil, red wine vinegar, salt, pepper, rosemary, thyme and garlic. Pour over the skewers, turning and massaging them with your hands to thoroughly coat the meat and vegetables. Cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate for 2 hours or up to overnight.

This recipe serves four. MATTHEW MEAD/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

3. When ready to cook, heat the grill to high. Using a paper towel soaked in vegetable oil held with a pair of tongs, lightly oil the grates.

4. Place the skewers on the grates and cook for 7 minutes per side, or until the meat registers 145 F. Serve immediately.

Preheat oven to 350°F.

Sift flour and cinnamon into a large bowl. Stir in Organika Coconut Sugar and a pinch of salt. Make a well in the center.

In a separate bowl, whisk egg, Organika Coconut Oil, almond milk, lemon zest. DO NOT DO THIS STEP AHEAD OF TIME, coconut oil hardens very quickly. Pour the mixture into the dry ingredients; and stir to combine.

Spoon batter into muffin holes to 1/3 full, then add 2 to 3 frozen raspberries to the center of each muffin. Top with the remaining batter and sprinkle with extra Organika Coconut Sugar.

Bake for 20-25 minutes or until they are golden brown and an inserted stick can be removed clean.

NO GUILTY SWEET TOOTH, YUM.

When the second issue of DC Comics' Earth 2 issue came out on June 5, 2012, so did one of the comic legend's oldest superheroes – the Green Lantern. As scandalous as it might have been for the original Lantern to be gay in 1940, the 2012 version caused barely a ripple. But is it really easier coming out as gay or lesbian now than in decades past? Here are four real-life accounts from different times and places.

KATHY ULLYOTT
Metro World News

Out: About

HANDOUT

Andrew Chase

Chef and food writer,
Toronto, age 57

Coming-out age:

Just before my 18th birthday.

Coming-out story:

I was a freshman at university and adjusting to being away from home and admitting to myself that I was gay. I came out first to a friend in my dormitory whom I suspected was also gay (I was right). It was strange, natural, easy, difficult, uncomfortable and liberating.

Any negative repercussions?

I had extreme difficulties with my family when I finally came out to them 10 years later, but that mellowed to complete acceptance after about a year.

Differences between coming out now versus then:

I think coming out to oneself is probably as hard it was in my time, but society in general is obviously much more accepting today.

What I would tell a young person considering coming out as gay or lesbian today: Do it when you feel comfortable. It can be a gradual process. Realize certain people might never understand, but that is their problem, not yours.

Caleb

Visual effects artist,
Vancouver, age 25

Coming-out age:

20

Coming-out story:

I told everyone via Facebook. My parents weren't on Facebook, though, so I had to tell them in person; that was a bit more difficult.

Any negative repercussions?

No, not really; everyone was totally cool. My mom was fine; I don't think she was that surprised.

What I would tell a young person considering coming out as gay or lesbian today:

Don't stress out about it too much – tell whom you want to, people you are close to. It can be difficult to tell your parents – but there's a really good chance that they know more than you think they know.

Julia Gulliver

Preparatory chef,
dishwasher and student,
St. John's, age 19

Coming-out age:

Coming-out story:

I was in Grade 10, and my best friend knew I had a crush on someone. She tried to guess who it was, guessing every boy we know (nope!) Finally she said, "Is it a girl?" I said, "Yes!" Then I was like a runaway train, telling everybody.

Any negative repercussions?

Not really. It took my family a month or two to warm up to the fact. My mom cried. But for her it was less about my being lesbian and more about life being maybe a more difficult road for me.

What I would tell a young person considering coming out as gay or lesbian today: Make a list of things that might happen. If you're not sure how important people (to you) might react, test the waters first by saying, 'Here's this interesting story I read ...' Proceed with caution if you don't like the reaction.

Bradley Borg

Events planner,
Toronto, age 52

Coming-out age:

17, when I put words to it.

Coming-out story:

I'd kind of always been out. But when I was in high school I fell madly in love with someone so found myself putting words around it, saying 'I'm gay.'

Any negative repercussions?

Well, I had a boss once who fell in love with me; when I told her I was gay she fired me. In 1981 when my mom was dying of pancreatic cancer, she was losing her hair from the chemo and asked me to give her a punk haircut. As I was doing it, she said, 'Don't ever tell your father (that you're gay).' It wasn't that he didn't know; he just didn't want to hear it.

What I would tell a young person considering coming out as gay or lesbian today:

Just be who you are, be yourself, love who you love, be proud of who you are. I don't think there's any need to make a big pronouncement to the world. Straight people don't walk into a boardroom and say, 'Hey, everybody, I'm straight!' Why should you?

Fishing is one of the activities you can try Saturday during River Day at Rundle Park Family Centre. STOCKBYTE/THINKSTOCK

River Day. Week of activities wrap up Saturday at Rundle Park Family Centre

PETER DOYLE
For Metro

This year's 42nd edition of Environment Week wraps up Saturday and continues to offer a variety of family-friendly activities. Edmonton events began with last Saturday's kickoff and end with Saturday's River Day at Rundle Park Family Centre.

There are still a few ways to join in Environment Week celebrations, such as by taking a tour of the Edmonton Waste Management Centre. The guided tours run Friday at 9:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m., and 5:30 p.m., and are free, but reservations are required. Tour guides will show how the city's recyclables are sorted and readied for market. You will also learn how household waste is transformed into valuable compost at North America's largest composting facility and how Edmonton generates electricity from decomposing trash.

Saturday, the focus will be on residential properties, as 12 different energy-efficient homes will host tours from noon to 4 p.m. The homes feature a variety of approaches to reducing consumption of energy, from the use of passive and active solar power and geothermal energy, to the use of unusual materials, such as bales of straw, for insulation. It's a great opportunity to witness the advantages of environmentally friendly building design and learn from homeowners and experts who are knowledgeable about the latest energy- and water-saving technologies.

Environment Week wraps up Saturday with River Day at Rundle Park Family Centre. The event starts at 10 a.m. with a free pancake breakfast. River Day runs until 3 p.m. and features rides in a voyageur canoe, kayak lessons and opportunities to try fishing and stand-up paddling. This is the perfect way to get the whole family out in the great outdoors and encourage their appreciation of the natural environment. Environment Week aims to build awareness of human impacts on our land, air and water. Take advantage of some of the events remaining this week to learn more about the natural world and your environmental footprint.

Don't forget to enter the Edmonton Environment Week online contest — you could win a Ready Solar™ solar-panel package worth $4,000! For more about the week's events, go to environmentweekedmonton.com/.

Tennis

Sharapova a win away from elusive French Open title

One victory Thursday finished Maria Sharapova's climb back to the top of the tennis rankings.

With one more on Saturday, she'll be the French Open champion and complete a career Grand Slam. Sharapova defeated Petra Kvitová 6-3, 6-3 in the semifinals at Roland Garros. The second-seeded Russian will meet 21st-seeded Sara Errani in the final.

"I always dreamed of being on the final stage here and I finally have that opportunity," Sharapova said. "And I'm more than excited." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

I'll Have Another looking good ahead of Triple Crown attempt, says trainer

Triple Crown contender I'll Have Another turned in another strong gallop as he prepares for the Belmont Stakes on Saturday.

On a sunny Thursday morning, the Canadian-owned colt again went once around the oval, duplicating the 1 1/2 miles of the race.

"He had a really good day of training," trainer Doug O'Neill said. "He showed good energy and he cooled out really well. I'm very happy with where we are two days out."

Brodeur breathes life into Devils' cup hopes

NHL. Grizzled netminder gives New Jersey chance to turn around final against L.A.

There was no way the moment was going to get the best of Martin Brodeur.

He's touched the Stanley Cup, lifted it in the air, had it out front of the house where he was raised in the Montreal borough of Saint Leonard. And he's made an incredible career out of helping the New Jersey Devils win important games.

So with Staples Center trembling in anticipation of a Stanley Cup sweep by the Los Angeles Kings on Wednesday night, it should be no surprise that Brodeur was at his best as the Devils forced a Game 5 back in New Jersey on Saturday.

"It's just being in the moment," he explained afterwards. "It's really hard while you're playing to really think about (past experiences) — even though some of them are successful, some are not. But for me, it's living in the moment, living these experiences with these guys. That's what hockey is all about."

With so much of the focus in this series on the outstanding play of Kings goaltender Jonathan Quick, Brodeur has almost been lost in the shuffle. But he stared down three breakaways in an extremely tight Game 4 and benefited from a couple fortunate breaks — two pucks rang off his post late in the first period — to keep the Stanley Cup from being presented.

Whether it was just delaying the inevitable or the start of a historic comeback by New Jersey, only time will tell.

Brodeur has been candid about his team's struggles in the series and knows that there is no room for error in his performance as a result. The fact he's still able to meet that challenge a month after his 40th birthday is amazing.

Few outsiders believed Brodeur would ever make his way back on to the big stage, especially since the Devils had only won two playoff series since he lifted his third cup in 2003.

"I don't think you're ever surprised at what he does, how he handles everything," Devils general manager Lou Lamoriello said at the start of the final.

"He has a personality that never looks back.... He's changed his game accordingly to the way the style is. He's a student." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kings make road look easy

The Kings, 15-3 in the post-season, are the first team to grab a 3-0 lead in four straight series in one playoff year.

- But only one of those matchups ended in a sweep as Los Angeles has now dropped three Game 4s at home.
- L.A. is heading back into its true comfort zone for Saturday's Game 5 — the road. It is there that they have already set records with 10 straight victories in this post-season, and 12 playoff wins in a row, dating to last year. With one more win away from L.A., the Kings will also set the mark with 11 road wins in a single playoff. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LeBron James refused to let another season end in Boston.

The Eastern Conference finals, and his chase of an NBA championship, are headed back to Miami for a Game 7.

James had 45 points and 15 rebounds, overwhelming the Celtics and leading the Heat to a 98-79 victory Thursday night that forced the decisive game.

Pushing away elimination right along with every defender who tried to stop him, James shot 19 of 26 from the field and finished four points shy of his playoff career-high

"He was absolutely fearless tonight, and it was contagious," Heat coach Erik Spoelstra said.

Dwyane Wade added 17 points for the Heat, who need a victory at home Saturday to return to the NBA finals.

Rajon Rondo had 21 points and 10 assists for Boston. Kevin Garnett and Brandon Bass each scored 12 points, but Paul Pierce had only nine on 4-of-18 shooting.

Ukraine president urges citizens to host with 'friendliness'

Ukraine's president called on his countrymen to give a warm welcome to visitors during the European Championship, in the face of concerns over racism at football matches and criticism over a political opponent's imprisonment.

- Viktor Yanukovich hailed his country's success in preparing for the tournament. He also congratulated his country on building roads, stadiums and airports for Euro 2012 and called on his citizens Thursday in a televised address to exhibit "our Ukrainian hospitality, sincerity and friendliness."

Euro 2012. Poland determined not to repeat mistakes of past while co-hosting Euro with Ukraine

Poland captain Jakub Blaszczykowski is determined not to let his team make the same mistakes at the European Championship that have torpedoed the country's hopes at past tournaments.

Topping that list is losing the opening game.

Poland was beaten in its first match at the 2002 and 2006 World Cups and the 2008 European Championship. It crashed out of each of those competitions in the group stage.

"For sure, the last tournaments were not a success, and that's why we're trying not to repeat the mistakes of the past," Blaszczykowski said Thursday. "But I'm convinced all of us players have done everything that we can to be ready for the first match. The most important thing is not to lose this game so as to head down the path of past tournaments."

The Poland side that will open this year's competition on Friday against Greece at Warsaw's new National Stadium in front of 55,000 fans is a very different team, however, from the ones that failed to impress in the recent past.

Above all, coach Franciszek Smuda has three top-class players to build the team around — the Borussia Dortmund trio of Blaszczykowski, striker Robert Lewandowski and defender Lukas Piszczek.

All three players are coming off stellar seasons during which they helped power Dortmund to a domestic double.

Lewandowski netted 22 goals in 34 league matches and was named the Bundesliga's player of the year. Blaszczykowski scored six goals and provided eight assists, while Piszczek contributed four goals and seven assists from his right back position.

"We have players who can change the game at any moment to our advantage, and that's the difference between this team and past teams," Blaszczykowski said.

The Poland captain and his teammates have an added incentive this year not to bow out early — they don't want to disappoint the millions of home fans who have been waiting for this moment since Poland won the right five years ago to co-host the tournament with Ukraine.

The World Cup may be the best-known soccer tournament on the planet. It may not be the best.

To many fans, the European Championship ranks as the top competition.

This year's continental championship, generally called Euro 2012, kicks off Friday in Warsaw when co-host Poland plays Greece at the National Stadium. Ukraine also will be hosting games.

With only 16 teams instead of 32, many believe the calibre of play at the European Championship exceeds that at the World Cup, which gets diluted by some of the slots apportioned to areas of the globe weaker in soccer.

Both tournaments take place every four years, but in

By the numbers

Only one non-European country (Uruguay in 2010) has been among the semifinals at the last two World Cups.

alternate even-numbered years. That puts the European Championship, which started in 1960 and became a full-fledged tournament in 1980 when eight teams competed, in the same summer as the Olympics.

For Euro 2012, defending champion Spain — which also won the 2010 World Cup — is the favourite, especially with Xavi Hernandez and Andres Iniesta controlling play. But the Netherlands and Germany are also contenders with their own game-changing players, notably the Dutch trio of Arjen Robben, Robin van Persie and Wesley Sneijder.

Others, like England with Wayne Rooney and Portugal with Cristiano Ronaldo, will also be in the mix.

Hooliganism is always an issue at major soccer tournaments; this year's competition has already been marred by racism concerns and political turmoil in Ukraine.

The 16 teams in the championship — the two co-hosts and 14 other nations that made it through a two-year qualifying tournament — have been split into four groups of four. The top two in each group reach the quarterfinals.

The final will be played on July 1 in Kyiv. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Group C

Croatia

Coach Slaven Bilic says striker Nikica Jelavic will spearhead the team's attack after a successful spell at Everton.

Ireland

Opening match against Croatia could give Irish a chance to start out competition on the right foot.

Italy

Standout Italy midfielder Andrea Pirlo has bruised his right calf, although team officials are treating the injury as very minor.

Spain

Will try to become first country to successfully defend European title but the absence of defender Carles Puyol will make it tough.

England

Opening clash with France on Monday should be a good litmus test after second-round exit at 2010 World Cup.

France

Pressure is on after 2010 World Cup training-ground strike which shocked and embarrassed a nation.

Sweden

Sweden has two concerns going into its opener against Ukraine on Monday — Johan Elmander's foot and the co-host's crowd support.

Ukraine

Ukraine coach Oleg Blokhin says his team's opening match against Sweden will decide whether his team has any chance of reaching the quarterfinals.

Horoscope

♈ Aries | March 21 - April 20.

You like to know what's going on and you like to know what's going to happen next but the Sun-Mars link will take you by surprise in a way.

♉ Taurus | April 21 - May 21.

Hopefully you won't take what happens today too seriously. You know how silly it is to struggle against events that cannot be controlled.

♊ Gemini | May 22 - June 20.

You will have to sacrifice something that is precious to you for the greater good today. Remember: You are not making this decision just for yourself but for other people too.

♋ Cancer | June 21 - July 22.

If you come on too strong today, you are likely to turn people against you, so tone down your act a bit. Charm is the key.

♌ Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22.

There is no point moaning about what you are expected to do — just roll up your sleeves and get on with the job.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22.

The problems you face are mostly problems you have created for yourself. Therefore, hoping that other people will resolve them for you isn't going to work, is it?

♎ Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22.

Stand your ground today even if you find yourself up against someone whose power and position puts your own in the shade.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21.

Partners may be pushy today but you must not give in to their demands. Let them know that you can't be threatened and that no matter what, your answer is still 'no'.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec. 21.

You will need to be tough today, especially when dealing with people who seem to believe they have some sort of right to your time and energy.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan. 20.

No matter how strongly the evidence points in one direction today, you must keep looking in other directions too.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb. 18.

If partners and colleagues want to play games today that's up to them but you care only about reality.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20.

Rise above your current situation. Once you understand that minor negative events are of no real importance you'll feel happier — and achieve more too.
